Release Date: 02nd of March 2015

File Under: Deep House

London, UK, 2015 – sinnmusik* continue to galvanise their catalogue and recall one of their favorite remixers - Jamie Trench - for his first full EP. Hailing from Milton Keynes and with previous releases on Tsuba, Viva and his own label Roots For Bloom, Jamie's latest offering is a package of funk-laden grooves backed up with remixes from Baldo, Bara Bröst, Hidden Spheres and Fewture & Freddie Glitch.

Listen: <https://soundcloud.com/sinnmusik/sets/sm025>

'Still Need It' kicks things off with frayed hats and rim shuffles sat atop a bumping kick and bass pattern. A classic vocal sample is niftily chopped and pitched before sinnmusik*'s very own mastering engineer Baldo weighs in and dims the lights on the original with his own sunken and moody revision.

New comer Hidden Spheres then follow up his release on Dirt Crew and offer up a scuzzy, lo-fi take on 'Still Need It' that wades in behind glowing keys and swooning vocals before Berlin based duo Bara Bröst bring us the first production from their newly equipped studio in the form of their buoyant, floor-ready remix that sets darting synth patterns over a thick and bendy bass pattern.

'Who You Gonna Call' then unfolds behind climbing horns and nifty funk samples that are sat atop a lethal bass pattern before Fewture & Freddie bring the release to a close with their stripped and sophisticated remix.
